WELCOME TO BOLOGNA

For over one thousand years, the multi-faceted and lively population of students has changed and lived the Bologna experience. The University and the city are by now an inseparable whole. Centuries of intense relations at the institutional level and at the citizens’ level have significantly marked both sides. Now the University of Bologna is pleased to present further evidence of its bond with such a special city - the Guide to the city of Bologna. A users manual intended to offer a map of the main information sources in Bologna, as well as its most significant attractions. As it is not possible to describe all the activities and businesses available in Bologna, this guide is rather aimed at providing hints and useful tips to live the city to its best. For this publication, an online version is also available at the following Web page: www.unibo.it/GuidaCitta. Once you are acquainted with the key activities and structures of the city, your personal interests and passions will guide you through the different lecture rooms and city squares, its markets and museums, its restaurants and parks. Those who decide to study in Bologna have the opportunity of opening up their horizons, expanding their studies and finding the best ways to enjoy and take care of themselves. Some students will decide to stay and enrich this city with their ideas and experiences, others will decide to return to their home city or to leave for new countries, bringing with them the expertise they have acquired and appreciated here. In this way, all students will leave something of their home city in Bologna and a little of Bologna will always accompany them wherever they go.
HISTORY OF THE ALMA MATER

The University of Bologna has ancient origins which mark it as the first University in the Western world. Its origins date back to the year 1088 - a conventional date fixed by a committee of historians presided over by the Italian poet and scholar Giosuè Carducci. The institution which we now call the University started to take form in Bologna at the end of Eleventh century when scholars of grammar, rhetoric and logic began to devote themselves to law. The first scholars whom we have documented evidence of are Pepo and Irnerius, the latter also known as "lucerna iuris" by posterity. After hearing the opinion of four doctores considered to be his pupils, in 1158, the Holy Roman Emperor Frederick I issued the 'Costitutio Habita', by which the University was designated by law as the place where research could be developed independently from any other power. From the Fourteenth century, the schools of jurists were flanked by those of the so-called "artists" - i.e., scholars of medicine, philosophy, arithmetics, astronomy, logics, rhetoric and grammar. Well-known Italian scholars, writers, and philosophers such as Dante Alighieri, Petrarch, Guido Guinizelli, and Cino da Pistoia spent a period of study in Bologna. Since the Middle Age, the University of Bologna’s prestige spread all over Europe and became the destination for other famous scholars, such as Thomas Becket, Paracelsus, Albrecht Dürer, Torquato Tasso and Carlo Goldoni. Nicolaus Copernicus studied papal law here, starting at the same time to make his astronomical observations. With the arrival of the Industrial Revolution, during the Eighteenth century, the University played an important part in the scientific and technological development. The scientific works by Luigi Galvani - one of the founders of modern electrical engineering - date back to this period. The period following the unification of Italy was for the University of Bologna an epoch of great new prestige, during which the figures of Giovanni Capellini, Giosuè Carducci, Giovanni Pascoli, Augusto Righi, Giacomo Ciamician and Augusto Murri stand out among others. In 1888 the eight hundred years of the University of Bologna was celebrated - a great event bringing together in Bologna representatives from all the world universities in order to honour what is considered the Mother of all universities. The celebration became an international study event as all the universities in the world recognized that they had their origins in Bologna, their continuity and the common ideas of progress in a context of tolerance. One hundred years later, on 18th September 1988, in Piazza Maggiore, the Rectors from 430 universities from all continents signed the Magna Charta Universitatum Europaeum, on the occasion of the nine hundred years of the University of Bologna. The Magna Charta states the autonomy of the University and the inseparable bonds between teaching and research, rejecting all limits imposed by “any geographic or political frontier”. On June 19, 1999, the European Ministries of Higher Education signed the so-called Bologna Declaration, in which “the main objectives for the realization of a European common area for higher education are defined”, such as: the adoption of a 2-cycle system; the introduction of a credit-based education system and of a diploma supplement to facilitate transparency and comparability, also at the international level, of the academic degrees; the promotion of student mobility, quality and European dimension. This was actually the start of the Bologna Process, the reform process of the European university system ending in 2010.
Beautiful and sweet Bologna! I spent seven years there, Probably the greatest ones...

Pier Paolo Pasolini - Italian writer, poet and film director, graduated at the University of Bologna
Bologna has always been the "city of students"; with over a thousand years experience as a university city, Bologna has created and developed a wide range of instruments and activities which should not be missed out for lack of information.

For this reason, it is important to know where to find and who may provide all the information needed. But if one wants to save time and avoid useless roundabouts, it is extremely important to learn how to "navigate" across Bologna, not only in reference to the fascinating underground water ways but also with regard to the Internet.

Thus, this guide starts with the presentation of some important information centres, useful to exploit all the opportunities offered by the city. The main information centres providing services to orientate oneself in the discovery of Bologna are the Public Relations Offices of the University and the Municipality of Bologna. Particularly useful for students in search of financial aid during their period of study is ER.GO, the Regional Agency for the Right to Higher Studies.

Each student can then choose his/her own path to better get acquainted with Bologna: a university city and much more.

Flashgiovani
This service is an integrated system of Web Portals created “by the young people for the young people” and promoted by the Sector Sports, Youth and Tourism of Bologna City Council. Young people work in the different editorial offices thanks to an agreement with the University and secondary schools and they carry out an informative and guidance activity oriented to the same-age users. By connecting to this Web Portal, it is possible to ask for the so-called Cartagiovani, a free personal card useful to obtain discounts and promotional offers in various city’s shops, museums, theatres, sports centres, and restaurants.

Those who come from out of the city should know that “rusco” means rubbish in the Bolognese dialect, and that there is a saying which has no equivalent in Italian, but we will try to explain it by telling you a funny story: as soon as she arrived in Bologna, one of our friends coming from Romagna (a region in northern Italy) heard the door bell ring and the postman ask her: “mi dà il tiro?” (will you give me a pull) Thinking that the postman was using a coarse expression, my friend replied that these were not things to ask a young woman. But the postman just wanted her to open the door.

Michele Mellara and Alessandro Rossi, film directors graduated at the University of Bologna
Bologna can boast a long-established tradition of hospitality towards students. There are different opportunities for accommodation, but one should be patient in their search and, above all, be aware that the cost may not be so affordable. The best period to search for accommodation is probably the summer, when all the students are leaving for other destinations.

The first thing to do when arriving is to check if there are still posts available at one of the students' residences offered by ER.GO. This opportunity is reserved to all those who possess the specific requisites relating to the student’s family income and merit. The services offered by the City Council helping in finding rentable rooms or flats are numerous, but for further information, students need to turn to the Municipality Public Relations Office in Piazza Maggiore. Within the university zone, in addition to the service "Bussola" (Compass) helping students in finding homes - students can also find various notice boards with accommodation advertisements. At newsstands, students may also find a wide range of free magazines with ads for rented accommodation both by estate agencies and private individuals. Internet is also a useful tool for getting acquainted with the housing offer, not to mention word of mouth: another good way of finding a flat.

When renting a room or a flat, it is important to have a good knowledge of all legal and contractual aspects. A lease contract not officially registered may cause serious problems. The University of Bologna - in cooperation with the Provincial Command of Guardia di Finanza (The military corps dealing with customs, excise and tax crimes) and with the local Municipality Authorities - is very involved in the fight against fraud and in the promotion of information campaign “Affitti in nero... convenienza zero!!!” (renting on the side....advantage zero!!) In the downloadable publication on the website www.unibo.it/Affitti, students can find information and useful tips to avoid problems and fraud regarding home or room leases.
Privileged Access
Every year, ER.GO, the Regional Agency for the Right to Higher Studies promotes various aid programs through a public competition, including a number of posts with privileged access. The requisites, the modalities and the terms for applying for these are indicated in the annual application form published on the website www.er-go.it, generally between June and July.

Free Access
ER.GO also offers a number of free access posts at its own residences. This service is addressed to all students and to those having a temporary accommodation need, such as, for example, researchers, Master’s degree students, students participating in international mobility programmes, etc.. For further information on the availability of posts and their costs, visit the section “Servizi abitativi” (Housing Services) on ER.GO’s website.

TEMPORARY ACCOMMODATION
While waiting to find a room or flat in Bologna, students may find temporary accommodation in a Bed&Breakfast, cheap hotel or hostel, and, if the season allows it, also in a camping site. The complete list of all places where to find temporary accommodation is available on IAT (Information and Tourist Offices of Bologna) website: http://iat.comune.bologna.it under the section “Ospitalità” (Hospitality). Being the city of studies par excellence, Bologna is capable of offering different services in support of the university career. First of all, it is important to mention the Career Guidance of the University, supporting students throughout their entire academic career: from the selection of the degree course to the entry into the job market.

ER.GO - the Regional Agency for the Right to Higher Studies is the main channel for accessing a series of scholarships and other benefits in relation to academic fees.

The University of Bologna promotes various initiatives of economic aid such as loans and scholarships for periods of study abroad and for special final degree papers.

Studying is mainly done with books and books are almost everywhere in Bologna! Together with the university libraries scattered in several areas of the city, are the municipal and district libraries, such as the Library at the Sala Borsa. The city of Bologna also includes numerous 24/7 study halls, or reading rooms where it is possible to study quietly.

For those who want to learn foreign languages, the University offers the language courses held by CILTA (the Inter-Faculty Centre of Theoretical and Applied Linguistics), offering advanced services of language teaching to all students.

A wide range of institutes, cultural centres and schools of languages is also available in Bologna, promoting courses at all levels and at affordable costs.
CAREER SERVICE
The Career Service - University of Bologna supports newly graduated students from secondary school in the selection of their academic programme, but it also provides help to the students already enrolled in the University having doubts about their career, as well as to the newly graduated students who wish to continue their postgraduate studies. Bologna is like a small town, and I like it. I owe much to it, and I find it natural to set stories here. Bologna is between the largest Italian plain and the Apennines. It has a bucolic soul ignored by many, but which I consider as a reason for survival.

Enrico Brizzi, writer from Bologna
Never as in recent years has work become such an integral part of the academic career for every student! After the Italian university reform, the working experience at university structures, or at other public institutions or private companies has become an integral element of the study programme through its curricular traineeship periods as provided by the single academic programmes.

In addition, specific traineeships are addressed to graduating and newly graduated students: the qualifying and training experiences carried out at organizations having an agreement with the University offer the opportunity of entering into contact with the job market and of developing the knowledge and skills acquired during their academic career. To earn a living or to benefit from a higher economic autonomy, the student often chooses to work during the academic career. Bologna offers a wide range of job opportunities for students and several services oriented to the job market. An important working opportunity for students with a good academic grade and in needy economic conditions is the part-time work activity at one of the University’s structures or offices (libraries, laboratories, museums, administrative offices, etc.).

Students may also choose to find a job outside the academic framework: the several job selection agencies in the city territory, the employment centres, the Informagiovani service, and so on are often looking for dynamic and keen students!
VOCATIONAL AND JOB MARKET GUIDANCE

Traineeships in Italy and abroad

For further information, please turn to the Traineeship Office of the relevant Faculty/School. Graduating or newly graduated students (within 18 months from the obtainment of their degree) may carry out a qualifying traineeship period for a first contact with the job market, both in Italy and in a EU or non-EU Country.

Bologna is “wise” and “gourmand” at the same time. “Wise” because “gourmand”: only the abundance of food and the organization of the food supply allows for the gathering together and nourishing of a very large student population. “Gourmand” because “wise”: the gathering of students in Bologna guarantees an extraordinary cultural melting pot, also with respect to gastronomy; every student brings his/her own experience, making Bologna a “bridge” between different European traditions.

Massimo Montanari, teacher at the University of Bologna.
Good food has always been one of the main attractions for Bologna’s visitors. If variety and abundance of food are not a problem, as is finding a meal at an affordable price, students must know the one-thousand proposals available in the city, starting from the catering services organized by the University and by ER.GO.

University canteens and refectories are probably the cheaper option for a complete meal. Right in the heart of the university area, students may find several pubs, restaurants, pizzerias and bars where it is possible to taste a delightful menu at variable prices. For dinner, an interesting place is via del Pratello, an historical street full of typical Bolognese osterias and trattorias (sort of taverns). With the arrival of different ethnic communities, the gastronomic offer has changed too: many restaurants and bars now cater for North African, Middle-Eastern, Balkan and Far-Eastern food at very affordable prices. When doing food shopping, the cheapest place is probably the Mercato delle Erbe (Market of fruit and vegetables) in via Ugo Bassi, mainly selling fruits and vegetables, but also cheese, meat, and fish at competitive prices. In the city historical centre, students can also find a large number of supermarkets and discount supermarkets. By now it is possible to eat and buy food at every hour of the day and night: the food shops and bars open during the night are getting more and more numerous.

Lastly, but not the least, Bologna hosts several food markets, groceries and supermarkets specialized in the selling of organic food or fair-trade products.

OR CANTEENS

Fausto Carpani, singer - songwriter from Bologna
Bologna is a city on a human scale, offering a lot of transport opportunities. Small enough to be explored on foot or by bike, the city offers a very efficient public service of bus transport - urban and extra-urban - managed by ATC, the city's transport company. ATC also offers a service for car sharing. With this system, it is possible to rent a car even for a short period of time at very affordable prices.

In addition, within the territory of Emilia-Romagna region you can buy a unique pass or ticket to travel by train and bus. This service - called "Mi Muovo" - is the first integrated transport subscription dedicated to all students.

For those who need a private car, it is recommendable to consult the website of the Municipality of Bologna under the section "infomobilità", which is useful to get acquainted with the urban driving code, and the temporary or residence car access permits. For students willing to move around by bike, the City promotes the programme "C'entro in bici" - a service of bicycle renting with automatic payment. During the year, several public auctions take place for the sale of second-hand bikes at cheap prices. It is recommendable to pay attention when parking your bike: it is strictly forbidden to park your bike under the porticos (the city arches). The same rule applies to motorbikes and mopeds, which must be positioned in the appropriate areas!

To travel outside Bologna, in Italy and abroad, students can find various transport opportunities: trains, long-distance buses, and airplanes. Bologna airport is in fact connected with the main cities in Europe and in the world.
BICYCLES

A cheap and environment-friendly means of transport to move across the city is represented by the bicycle. The map of the cycle tracks in Bologna and in the suburbs is available on the website www.comune.bologna.it under the section "Infomobilità - Mobilità Urbana".

"C’entro in bici"

Bologna offers a public service of bike renting with automatic payment. This service is addressed to all persons of age being resident in Bologna or its provincial territory, or being resident in another city of the Emilia-Romagna region but living in Bologna, including the personnel and the students from the University of Bologna, even if they are not resident in Bologna. To use these bikes, a special key with personal code protection is required; the key is made available by the ATCittà offices at the subscription.

CAR SHARING

This idea of alternative mobility has been proposed by ATC: the Car Sharing is a service providing for the sharing a car. Car Sharing allows to "buy" the effective usage of a car rather than buying a car; it is the ideal solution for short-distance and frequent driving and it represents a valid alternative to the property of a car for those who needs to move autonomously. To gain access to this service, you need to pay for an annual subscription; the cost varies on the basis of the usage and frequency. For some categories of citizens special reductions are offered.

There is a road in the centre of Bologna which has a hole under a portico, a square window which seems to have been dug into the wall of a house; this hole is covered by a small wooden shutter within an iron frame. This is the centre of Bologna, the centre of a land city; just give the door a knock and it will open to show a river.

Carlo Lucarelli, writer, graduated at the University of Bologna
EXPERIENCING

Bologna "The Wise" offers a wide range of opportunities for those who wish to discover, know and have an insight view into the world: exhibitions, concerts, masterly lectures, conferences, as well as art, music, dance and cinema reviews, poetry events and scientific debates. The University of Bologna promotes the initiative "Unibocultura", a review of cultural events mainly addressed to students. The various university museums - from the Museum of Palazzo Poggi to the Museum of Geology and Paleontology, passing through the Museum of Zoology, the Specola and the Museum of Astronomy - represent another opportunity for acquiring knowledge. The likewise numerous city museums are also of great interest for students: the Museum of Archaeology, the Museum of Judaism, the Morandi Museum, the MAMbo - the Museum of Modern Art, Villa delle Rose and many others make Bologna a city to be explored. An important cultural initiative during the summer is "Bolognaestate", a festival of cultural and entertainment events, taking place from June to September and including a rich agenda of events set in charming cloisters, squares and gardens. The cultural opportunities are often offered thanks to the numerous cultural associations, galleries and clubs promoting events, festivals and learning courses open to everyone. The city of Bologna also includes small "places of culture" such as the special video shops where you can find essay films, or the shops selling the rarest comics, an industry which can boast a solid tradition in Bologna with authors like Bonvi, Igort, Magnus and Pazienza. Already "European capital for culture" in the year 2000, Bologna has been appointed by UNESCO a "Creative city of music" for the year 2008, thanks to its rich musical tradition in constant evolution. To sum up, it is possible to affirm that Bologna "The Wise" never lets you down: favouring and stimulating culture and knowledge has always been one of its oldest virtues.

Sports distract the mind and help studying; the preparation for an exam or a match require the same concentration, the same method.

Ester Balassini, Italian champion in the throwing of the hammer, graduated at the University of Bologna.
Although the city does not incorporate so many green areas inside the urban perimeter, several public parks surround Bologna. The best-known public park in the city is probably the park "Giardini Margherita", a beloved destination for all joggers and rollerbladers. Positioned in the real heart of the city centre, between via Irnerio and via Indipendenza, is the Parco della Montagnola. A fascinating and peaceful place but with limitations in terms of opening hours and movement is the Botanical Garden, one of the oldest in the world.

The surrounding hills with their parks represent a further opportunity to spend a day in a green area, for example, the Park of Villa Cassarini, the Parco Talon, the Parco Cavaioni or the green area of Monte Donato, just to mention some of them. For those who fear that they do not have enough training or muscle, it is recommendable to take the bus 52B to explore the hills.

The quality of life and the health much depend on the sports activities carried out. Moreover, sports help your studying: the preparation for a match and that of an exam require the same concentration and the use of a method; sports activities contribute to the personal wellbeing and favour social integration. For this reason, the University of Bologna promotes sports activities among students through a special agreement with CUSB - the University Sports Centre of Bologna, offering the opportunity of playing several sports disciplines at an amateur or at a competitive level, at very affordable prices.
CUS Bologna

Sports within the University are organized and managed by CUS Bologna, the University Sports Centre of Bologna. On the website of CUS Bologna, you can find all contacts for the sports facilities and centres, but also information about the different sports disciplines and the modalities of subscription.

When I am sleepless, I dream; when I am sad, I cry; when I am a hypochondriac, I identify myself in all illnesses, and I try to understand from the inside what can not be understood from the outside.

Alessandro Bergonzoni, artist, graduated at the University of Bologna
Besides boasting a prestigious School of Medicine at a national and international level, Bologna offers a wide range of opportunities and facilities for your care. Students coming from another city to study here may choose a general practitioner or doctor (in Italian, "medico di base") as an alternative to their own doctor in the city of residence; to ask for a doctor, students just need to turn to the CUP - Centro Unificato di Prenotazione (the Unified Centre for Reservation) with a valid identity document and the personal healthcare card. Students who do not want to give up their own general practitioner at the city of residence may apply to the practicing doctors offered by Azienda USL - Bologna for a free check-up in their surgery. For a complete list of all doctors available, visit the website www.unibo.it/Medico; it is recommended to hand in the documents required. To book a specialized check-up or examination or test, just apply to CUP or to one of the so many pharmacies or chemist’s enabled to make a reservation upon the presentation of the doctor’s prescription. If you prefer to apply to a private centre or medical structure, you will have an amazingly vast choice. In addition, the University of Bologna offers to all students specific and free services, such as the SAP (the Psychological Aid Service). Though being the cradle of traditional medicine, Bologna does not however neglect other alternative medicines: in almost every chemist’s or pharmacy, you can find an area dedicated to homeopathy, herbalism or other disciplines. By surfing the Web, you may also find a wide range of structures offering non conventional therapeutic treatments and practices.
BASIC MEDICAL ASSISTANCE FOR INCOMING STUDENTS

All the information about healthcare and the useful contacts for medical assistance are available at the website: www.unibo.it/Medico.

Incoming Italian students

The Italian incoming students who do not want to give up their own doctor at the city of residence may apply to the doctors or general practitioners available in the list published at the website www.unibo.it/Medico. To apply for this free service, students just need to hand in the university badge reporting the words "Convenzionato Az. USL-BO" (delivered to the student at the enrollment; the badge must be renewed every year at the Faculty’s Secretariat), as well as the national healthcare card and a copy of the badge.

Incoming EU students

Students staying at the University of Bologna for periods longer than 3 months have to hand in the following documentation:
- Form E106 released by the student’s home country; this form offers to the student the free subscription to the Italian National Healthcare System (the expiry shall depend on the duration of the study course) and the possibility of choosing his/her doctor in the city of enrollment for the academic purposes;
- or a private medical and healthcare insurance policy for the entire duration of the study course, covering all risks, and the relevant certificate of conformity with Italian law as duly signed by the insurance company.

The European Healthcare card (TEAM) released by the student’s home country grants free healthcare service only for the first 3 months of study in Italy and for medically emergency treatments.

Incoming non-EU students

Students registered to the SSN - the Italian National Healthcare System may contact the Ufficio Convenzioni per il Diritto allo Studio (Office for Special Agreements for the Right to Study) for the release of the badge with the words “Convenzionato Az. USL-BO”. To register to the SSN, non EU students need to pay for an annual subscription including the release of a personal healthcare card and the selection of a doctor. To apply to this service, please contact Azienda USL, at the free multilingual telephone number 800 663 366. Otherwise, it is possible to buy a private insurance policy covering all medical costs.

GUARDIA MEDICA

(Medical Assistance)

The service “Guardia medica” (medical assistential continuity) is a service offered upon payment for all patients coming from other cities or regions who have not opted for a general practitioner in the territory of residence, included the students from the University of Bologna having the personal healthcare badge. The pleasure of clubbing in Bologna is a trip through territories which do not know any longer the superfluous difference between night and day, between highbrow intake and pop.

Pierfrancesco Pacoda, journalist, graduated at the University of Bologna
GOING OUT

Bologna is the ideal city to exploit one’s leisure time to the best: from the aperitif time to late night, all bars, discos and streets of the city centre are enlivened by young men and women coming from different regions of Italy and foreign countries. Among the many thousand ways of spending the night, Bologna can boast a high number of theatres and cinemas having an agreement with the University, such as the Cineteca Lumière, where entire generations of students have explored and appreciated the film production of every continent; or theatres like the Arena del Sole, which is the stage of great Italian actors and artists, including prestigious international performances.

Music has also a fundamental role in the cultural and entertainment panorama of the city. As a matter of fact, there is the saying in Bologna: “if you kick a bush, a DJ will come out of it”.

The places where music is played live are various, from classic jazz at Chet Baker, Cantina Bentivoglio or Scuderia, to pop-rock (Covo, Estragon, Locomotiv), passing through the inter-ethnic remaking of traditional music (La Casbah).

But Bologna is also the place for dance: from the glamour clubs such as Kinki to the discos like the Container, where it is possible to find a niche-audience.

So, after studying or working, students have the possibility of enjoying themselves in a continuous party, which concludes every night with a hot croissant at one of the numerous bars open during the night, scattered all over the city.
Students and staff from the University of Bologna have access to a large number of cinemas having an agreement with the University, which offer a reduced ticket price on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays (except during bank holidays). The Cineteca of Bologna applies special reductions to all students (also during bank holidays) as well. To benefit from these reduction, students have to present their university badge and a valid identity document.
